

Bedtime Story For the Little Ones

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE GRANDPA GOOSEY.

By HOWARD R. GABIS.

"What is the matter, Uncle Wiggly?" asked Grandpa Goosey Gander, the goose gentleman, who had been sitting in front of the soldier tent, where the rabbit bunny was learning to be a soldier and fight the mosquitoes in the war. "You seem very tired and sleepy, Mr. Longears," went on Grandpa Goosey.

"I am," answered Uncle Wiggly, opening wide his mouth to yawn, at the same time making his pink nose twinkle like a dill pickle at a Sunday school picnic. "I've been awake so much tonight, standing on guard in the trenches and in front of my tent, so the enemy mosquitoes would not get me, that I can almost go to sleep now standing on my feet."

"Why don't you?" asked Grandpa Goosey.

"It would look so funny!" Uncle Wiggly answered.

"Maybe you can sleep tonight, then," spoke the goose gentleman. "No, I'm sure I can't sleep tonight, for I must keep guard tonight also, for there is no telling when the enemy mosquitoes will come."

"Ha, hum!" exclaimed Grandpa Goosey, sort of clapping one wing carelessly like, "I think I shall find a way so you will get some sleep to-night, Mr. Longears."

"I wish you would," said Uncle Wiggly, this time making his pink nose twinkle like a dill pickle in a rice pudding and at the same time stretching his paws sleepily like, "I certainly would like to get a good night's rest, but still some one must be on guard against the mosquitoes, for that is a soldier's life. He! Hum!"

"Oh, some one will be on guard all right," promised Grandpa Goosey, and with that he waddled off toward his own penhouse. Uncle Wiggly kept on marching up and down in front of his tent with his talcum powder beamshooter popgun on his shoulder, learning to be a soldier, so he could teach the animal boys what to do in war time, when the mosquitoes are very pestery.

That evening Grandpa Goosey Gander, taking a cornmeal sandwich in his pocket, started from his pen in his automobile, made with potato paring seats and an apple core for a steering wheel.

"Where in the world are you going?" asked Grandpa Goosey.

"I'm going to stand guard in front of Uncle Wiggly's soldier tent so he can get some sleep," answered Grandpa Goosey. "It is not fair that he should stand guard every night, I must do my share of guard duty."

"But can you keep awake?" asked Mr. Goosey.

"Of course I can," harked Grandpa Gander, as he started his automobile by pulling the onion stalk that was a handle to make it go. "I'll get sleepy, I'll just eat my cornmeal sandwich. Uncle Wiggly must get some rest. So off rode Grandpa Goosey Gander to the trench where Uncle Wiggly was still on guard.

SUFFERED SINCE SHE WAS A BABY

Mrs. O'Neill gains eighteen pounds on Tanlac and troubles are overcome.

"I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and have actually gained eighteen pounds," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Mamie O'Neill of 2914 W. Belmont street, Denver, Colorado, recently.

"Ever since I was a child," Mrs. O'Neill continued, "even as far back as I can remember, I have had trouble with my stomach. Everything I would eat seemed to go wrong in my stomach, causing a great deal of trouble. I would lose weight and my stomach would rise up around my heart. My trouble became worse as I grew older and finally I got to where I dreaded to eat anything on account of the dreadful suffering it caused me."

"I tried every kind of medicine, I think, that is made for stomach trouble, both in tablet and liquid form, but nothing ever did me any good. I fell off in weight, was very weak and when night came I was so tired I could not sleep. My brother in Pueblo told me of the fine results he had gotten from Tanlac and advised me to try it. I did so and I am just beginning to enjoy the blessings of good health. I can't remember when I was in such good physical condition as now and it's the first time since I was a child that I could eat without suffering afterwards."

"I can eat just anything I want and enjoy it, and I know if my food did not agree with me I could have gained so much in weight. I sleep well every night now and Tanlac has built up my strength until I can do my work without getting the least bit tired. I now recommend Tanlac to everybody, because of what it has done for me and I'm buying a bottle now for a friend of mine for I believe it is just what she needs."

Tanlac is sold in El Paso by Kelly & Pollard and People's Drug Store.—Adv.

GROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BUILT UP

Look, mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

"Every mother realizes, after giving her children 'California Syrup of Figs,' that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping."

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless 'fruit laxative,' and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When his little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good 'internal cleansing' should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep 'California Syrup of Figs' handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 5-cent bottle of 'California Syrup of Figs,' which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here today with pretty pictures and names, but not the genuine, made by 'California Fig Syrup Company.'—Adv.

Real beauty is the reward of good health.

Health upon which a good complexion is built.

I have emphasized often in these columns the necessity for a proper mental attitude, but it is worth repeating. It is a physical fact that mean, angry or despondent thoughts actually poison the body, while pleasant, joyous and buoyant thoughts tend to stimulate and tonify.

I am not decrying the use of cosmetics as aids to beauty, I am merely pointing out once more that all the creams and rouges and tonics in the world will not give a woman a really beautiful complexion unless she has laid the foundation in health of mind and body.

Dot—Good health will fill in the hollows in the cheeks and make the eyes look bright. If you are under normal in health, as I judge, get a good tonic and take it, drink plenty of milk every day, sleep at least an hour longer than you do now. If you can, get away for a rest and a change of air.

BEAN EXPERIENCES A CHANGE OF HEART

It is said that hereafter no requests for an autographed photo of George Behan will be refused.

He had steadily ignored all photographic requests until the receipt of a letter from a little lame girl in Columbus, O., was said. "The letter was so appealing that I made an exception and mailed the photo requested. Her reply thanking me for the photo was the most pathetic thing I have ever read. For five years the poor child had been bedridden, and she had been able to be moved about in a wheel chair, and in this manner she had been taken for an occasional visit to the lake."

Her only pleasure in life, she said, was the collecting of photographs of her favorite players. It was then that I experienced a change of heart, feeling that there may be many to whom the sending of a photo might bring at least a momentary pleasure."

ALL SHE WANTS IS THE BEST

Mrs. Van, Viola Dana's secretary, says she really got this one from a correspondent. She hasn't yet answered it.

"Dear Miss Dana—Will you please send me a complete outfit of clothing, shoes, and accessories, and a new evening dress. Don't send cheap things, because I move in a very good circle, and my social position would not permit me to wear inferior clothes. I shall enjoy opening the box very much."

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN.

VIOLET de Baccari, who has made a nation wide reputation for her excellent work in previous William Fox pictures, appears again in "The Battle of Life," the new film starring Gladys Curburn. Miss de Baccari plays the part of Mary Boland when Mary is a child, a role that calls for only a short space of emotional acting.

A stranger happened to be visiting the studio on the day when Miss de Baccari acted the scene in which her film mother dies. The little girl, shaken with sobs, threw herself on the bed across the prostrate form of the woman. There were tears in the eyes of director Vincent as he called instructions to the child actress, and camera man Rene Guisard needed an extra hand for his handkerchief.

"Has everyone about this place got a cold?" the visitor asked, in gulping tones.

"No," answered the director, "but we're just been watching Violet act. When she cries for a movie, she sets the whole force weeping."

The Daily Novelette

IN THE PALMY DAYS.

For one man who wakes up and finds himself famous, a thousand other sleep themselves.—Prof. Slap.

T WAS the Fourth of July, 240 B. C. Demosthenes, rather well known as an author, stood on a box that had contained Achilles soap (adv.) and harranged the mob long and well against woman's suffrage. More than once he would have stopped to get a few breaths, but each time he caught sight of the stern face of his wife, Athens' most prominent anti, and hurriedly harranged on.

"And now," he cried dramatically, putting one hand on his left eyebrow and the other on his right hip, (see Marcel Yild's "Postures of Great Actors")—"and now, if there is one man in all this motley assemblage who favors votes for women, let him say aye!"

"Aye!" cried a little Greek with egg stains on his toga.

"You, little Swede!" (See Jones' "Greatest Sings"). "And who are you?"

"I am a ballot counter," said the disenter. "I receive fifty karbocks (about 20 cents) for every 2000 votes I count at elections."

And with a roar of merriment the thrice moved over to the other corner to listen to a rival orator advocate liberal Sunday laws.

HOROSCOPE.

Tuesday, June 5, 1917.

A STROLOGERS read this as an unlucky day. Saturn, the Sun and Neptune are all in evil aspect.

There is a sign that appears to point persistently to a terrible explosion from underground. This has been foretold for many months and as is clearly read as any prophecy that the seers have made.

From this date the aged should be exceedingly cautious about conserving their health. The stars indicate epidemics that are serious for the old as well as the young.

This is a most unfavorable rule for travel on the water. A disaster at sea is foreboded for a United States ship that bears a very precious cargo.

From this time on the good stars will encourage much secrecy and events of startling nature will be hidden from public knowledge, but not through adverse aspects of Mercury which may writers and publicity.

Extremes of selfishness and unselfishness are foreboded as a development of the war, but the tendency will be for all who are blind to great opportunities for service to experience severe losses and to undergo many distresses.

Warning is given that the race belongs to the slow in preparations for war and the seers declare that the foreseen needless loss and bloodshed that will arouse the American people.

The signs also appear to indicate that men in high places will be censured and that misunderstandings and suspicion will spread needlessly.

The approach of the summer quarter when the Sun enters the sign Cancer forebodes danger of strikes and railway accidents.

At this time the conjunction of the moon with Saturn is most unfortunate for royalty and deaths are prognosticated as well as serious troubles.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have heavy losses in the coming year. Those who are employed will meet many disappointments.

Children born on this day may have many vicissitudes in life. These subjects of Gemini are usually affectionate and fond of home.—Copyright 1917 by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

MEXICAN EXODUS KEEPS UP, SAYS COMMISSIONER

Austin, Tex., June 4.—The exodus of Mexicans from Texas to Mexico is continuing at an alarming rate, according to C. W. Woodman, state labor commissioner, despite the efforts of his department and other agencies to check it. Mr. Woodman has an inspector who speaks the Spanish language and who is making an effort to stop Mexicans who are leaving.
